Gospel: John 21:1-19

 Peter had to search deep inside of himself to realize that through shame, regret and pain how much more of a man he needed to become. This long night, fishing without catching a single thing, the net turning up empty, is a reflection that sometimes the churches work and mission is not received and turns up empty. It is not a time for disillusionment, it is always been a part of church history, including the life of Christ, a man rejected. But in the end, there is always the chance that we will discover the Risen Lord and listen to his voice. ... – It is the Lord. – This is what the discipline said. How did he know? How do any of us know? By standing on the lookout, by watching each other's faces, by prayers, by listening, seeing good deeds. By living with spiritual expectation each day and refusing to believe that our nets will always stay empty. Those with ears to hear, hear the voice that brings the dead back to life. It could even be as simply as, the voice says, "Come", and have breakfast.

From the Pew

Next week, May 1st, 6 p.m., is the Sacrament of Confirmation for eleven teenagers at St. Mary's. The principal concelebrant is Archbishop George H. Niederauer. If you wish to celebrate the occasion, get there early.

We welcome into the Catholic faith, Grace Farley's grandson, parents Melissa and Omar Silva, their son, Daniel, baptism today at St. Mary's.

Our sympathy for Paul Conley whose mother passed away last week in Seattle.

St. Cecilia Golf Tournament. June 8th. Spread the word and invite any golfers who enjoy the sport and would like to support St. Cecilia's parish.

We would like to have a summer picnic potluck party, July or early August. We could do this on our own ground or at Camp Taylor Park, on a Sunday afternoon. Let me know which site is your preference and month. Picnics are always fun for all ages.
