Gospel: John 3:16-18

Father, Son, and Holy Spirit.

The Charismatics emphasize the Spirit, Healing, Speaking in Tongues, Baptism, etc.

Theologians emphasize Christ, His word, Gospel, Truth, and Revelation.

The Father remains a mystery and offers us the mystery of Life. So much we do not know.

Archbishop Michael Ramsey wisely said, "When one member of the Trinity is over-emphasized at the expense of the other two, there is always trouble, always trouble."

The Trinity offers us a balance Faith, Mysteries, Theology, and Spirituality, - with Breadth and Depth.

From the Pew

Send in a concept of "What a Parish is" to you. To date, six people have responded.

"To me the parish is my religious community. It is the community that I know I can count on for friendship, caring, and understanding. The parish is there for all of us to embrace as a safe environment to worship God, express our spirituality and bring our special gifts and needs. The parish church is fundamental to the life of the Catholic community. The priest is the counselor and advisor for the community. The parish then becomes an integral part of the community as a whole taking the Faith and strength we support each other with out into the rest of the community." - by Kathy Beckerley.

Belgian politicians have proposed widening the law to allow euthanasia for teenagers, terminally ill younger children, and the elderly who suffer from dementia. Belgium's Roman Catholic Cardinal Danneels denounced the practice of euthanasia. "Avoiding suffering is no act of bravery," "Our society seems unable to cope with death and suffering."
