Gospel: Luke 3:10-18

One can see from this story that John was a keen moralist, clearly able to decipher where the straight paths of decent living lay. It is in the giving to others of what is their due and rights that we begin to give back to God, what is due to Him. The first pilgrim leader said, "The work of life is learning to live with each other."

Universal Church: Rome and Anglicans

Pope Benedict XVI offer of a home to despaired Anglicans of the direction of their church may turn out to be the most explosive development since the Reformation. Anglicans willing to accept Peter do not have to renounce their traditions. Married Anglican clergy will be able to become Catholic Priest by means of a (re)ordination. Seminarians would be trained in separate houses of study in order to protect traditions. Anglicans would be allowed to keep their texts and dress. How many Anglicans would make the leap is unknown. Discussions and negotiations will now open up between Roman Catholics and traditional Anglicans.
