Mark 4 : 26 - 34

The parable of the mustard seed is that it grows by itself, but it is a slow process over time. The parable is meant to encourage the Church not to be worried about how slow things happen in church life. Not to be disappointed, disillusioned. Not to expect instant results. The seed has been planted and it will grow into something great.

Social Justice

Is it ever justifiable to send juveniles to prison for life without parole? States believe so where under law, minors are treated as adults. In the US, 200,000 youth are sentenced each year as adults, 2,500 without parole. Youth are distinctively different from adult offenders. Their brains are not yet fully developed. They are more easily prone to peer pressure. They are more impulsive, and don't yet have the ability to assess actions as adults can. To cast them into jails for life as if they are worthless and beyond reform is morally reprehensible.
