Mark 10 : 2 –16

Long before the Great Religions of the World entered the world scene and regulated religious laws on marriage or more recently civil institutions legalizing laws in their native lands, Natural Law determined the basic behavior of mankind. When men and women shared an intimate relationship, bore and raised children together, they by human nature knew they had a bond and a responsibility to be together for the good of family and society. Though divorce s is now prevalent, deep down we know it is not our deepest will for human life.
