Matthew 11 : 25 – 30

It's always been a puzzlement to me how some people have faith, others no. Even in families one brother's life rooted in faith, his other brother left the church at 18 years of age. A wife responsible for her faith, her husband who wants nothing to do with anything of faith. There is hardly a family who does not experience this today.

"Earth Habitat", parish book of the year. Keep those pages turning. First discussion, pages 1 to 100, Thursday, July 24th, 7:15 p.m. at St. Cecilia's Hall.

Parish picnic last week was filled with food & drink, fun, and music. Thanks Mike Stephens and his team for organizing the event, and all the musicians who joined in and entertained the crowd.

St. Mary's CCD From Margaret: "I always give the kids an end of year survey. It helps me figure out what they understand and do not. Here are some answers

- What do I want to learn about God that I do not know?
 - why can't we see him
 - did he choose to be God or was he chosen
 - who is God
 - why does he make deadly things
- If I could change Mass I would ...
 - make it shorter
 - add more happy things - stories and songs - rather than sad ones
- My favorite part of Mass is.... Why?
 - going up and bringing the money because I like money
- What am I curious about in church?
 - why is there flat bread crackers and not a loaf"

Climate Crisis (Part 2)

The polluting practices of the world's richest nations have their most pronounced effect on the earth's poorest inhabitants. We now know earth is getting warmer. Glaciers are melting; sea levels are rising, agriculture from rain storms, droughts, affecting production. The Church is concerned about responsibility to the future and human needs as food, health and energy. Pope Francis has said, "We have become a culture of comfort thinking only of ourselves." What about the sufferings of future generations who will live in a broken environment because of our sins against nature. Who of us will hear their cries. We need to hear them now.

Did you know The use of yellow cards at soccer games came from an English referee who stopped at a red light and thought this could be good for the game. In 1970 FIFA adopted his view as a way for referee's to communicate with players and spectators. Red Cards – Arrivederci. Yellow Cards – Comé Stai
