John 10:11 - 18

The title that Jesus ascribed to himself is the Good Shepherd. He does not say a prince of the church or administrator or chairman. He uses a pastoral term that underlies his mission, the caring of souls. The investment of one's life in putting people first in all matters, even above self as shepherds do for their sheep. A pastor supposedly is also to be a good shepherd to his flock.

Vatican Pope Francis has made his pontificate one focused on mercy "Misericordia". This contains two words, "Cor" meaning heart; "Miseri" suffering or miserable, therefore the word's meaning is to have a heart for the suffering, in another word, "Mercy". Pope Francis believes the church has to be seen as merciful to all who are living in pain, and it must be evident in our parishes, our institutions, our communities and the larger church itself. Christ is the model of mercy, how could his church not be.

Pope Francis will call a Holy Year 2016. Holy Years are usually every 25 years, the last 2000 AD. The year will be dedicated to the theme of Mercy. The first Holy Year was dedicated in 1300 AD. Holy Years are years for reconciliation, conversion, mercy in the sense of forgiveness, and even pardoning debts.
