The Apostles returned tired and fatigue. Jesus must be exhausted also, but he takes time out of his busy life to be with the twelve and listen to their stories and concerns; and also to the hundreds coming to him with their experience of life. It seems Jesus has an attitude of I am never too busy for people.

Pope Francis Encyclical on the Environment [Part 3 of 4] Rapid technological development has not been accompanied by a corresponding growth in values and conscience. Technocratic mentality perceives reality as something that can be manipulated endlessly. We need to have a correct relationship with the world and our place in relation to other forms of life in the world. We humans consume more than all species put together. A remarkable stat by any standards and technology has now raised this to justifying transgressing all ethical boundaries.
