Luke 3 : 15 – 22

Baptism is the reception into God's divine life and welcomed into the body of Christ, his Church. Even though baptism cleanses us of sin, we cannot apply this to John's baptism of Jesus. There are none to wash away. It is Jesus who washes away the sins of the world.

Pope Francis By canonizing and by making saints in the Church, we wish to bear witness to God's dialogue and friendship through these men and women.

2nd Council of Nicaea, 325 A.D. Emperor Constantine ended Christian persecutions. Arius (priest) popularized the heresy Jesus was not equal to God the Father, not divine, and not eternal. This debate became so heated Constantine called for a Council at Nicaea. Arius was condemned and excommunicated. The Nicaea Creed was adopted which we say every Sunday. The bishops also agreed to the date when Easter is celebrated.
